MADRAS INSTITUTE OF DEVELOPMENT STUDIES

Dr.Malcolm S.Adiseshiah and his wife Elizabeth founded the Madras Institute of Development Studies (MIDS) in 1971 with the following objectives:

- To undertake studies and research pertaining to development problems with special reference to the agro-rural aspects of Tamil Nadu and the problems of the economically and socially backward sections of the population throughout the country.

- To conduct seminars and conferences on development problems and programmes of the State.

- To foster inter-university cooperation among the social scientists of the Universities of the four southern states.

- To promote interdisciplinary research, and bring out publications relating to the above three functions.

In 1977, it was reconstituted as a national institute jointly sponsored by the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi and the Government of Tamil Nadu.

The research concerns of the faculty are wide ranging from the concerns of development economics such as agriculture, rural development, industry, urbanisation and labour, to emerging interdisciplinary areas such as gender, environment, human development, social and political movements, and social criticism.

Through its seminars and workshops, MIDS has become a centre for critical thinking on development issues, particularly relating to Tamil Nadu. The service of faculty members are increasingly sought by State and Central government departments, autonomous agencies, universities and colleges, non-government and international organisations. In 1996, MIDS celebrated its Silver Jubilee with a number of programmes and workshops, and by improving the quality of its library and computer infrastructure.

Introduction

The year under review (July 2000 - June 2001) has witnessed considerable progress with respect to several issues which the previous report highlighted. One of them, it may be recalled, was to introspect and ensure that MIDS objectives were not out of step with emerging trends in India's economy, polity and society. This exercise, fine tuning as it were, derived extra impetus imparted to us in our search for additional financial support which is essential to upgrade our facilities and expand the activity range. The Ratan Tata Trust whom we approached for support required us to prepare a Vision Document spelling out how we saw ourselves over the next decade. This endeavour as well as formal and informal interactions among ourselves has helped in arriving at a set of priorities in research, dissemination and related programmes. While our introspective engagement has not resulted in a fundamental reordering of our aims or in a restructuring of our ethos it has nonetheless helped by clarifying several important issues in our minds. We have also gained from the experience of initiating new programmes which were on the anvil when the last report was presented.

This report is presented under the following principal heads: personnel, direction of research, dissemination activity, and infrastructure. The composition of the Governing and Academic Councils of the Institute are furnished in Annexures I and II.

Personnel

Thiru.C.Annadurai, Research Associate, availed of voluntary retirement from 1 February, 2001 for personal reasons. Vacant positions in the faculty - two posts of Fellows and four of Research Associates - were advertised and selections made in April 2001. The faculty is richer now with the following recruitments:

Fellows:

Dr.Ananta Kumar Giri
Dr.Manabi Majumdar

Research Associates:

Dr.A.R.Venkatachalapathy
Dr.K.Sivasubramaniyan
Dr.Kripa A.P.
Dr.Moana Bhagabati

While recording our welcome to them it is a matter of some satisfaction that in the process the composition of the faculty is a little more gender-balanced. The list of faculty members and their areas of research is provided in Annexure III. The composition of administration, research support staff and library are given in Annexure IV.

Direction of research

One of the innate strengths of MIDS is the autonomy which is recognised as the right of every member of the faculty. By and large the research agenda is decentralised. Yet, happily, there is congruence of research interests which attests essentially to the ethos which has evolved in the Institute. The whole range of research interests of the faculty, rich in their diversity, converge on the problem of deprivation and the issue of widening access to overcome it. Members of the faculty approach this central question from different perspectives all of them germane to the context of our society. These approaches can be grouped into broad categories. Inevitably, though, like all abbreviations this too may do some injustice to individual contributions. Also there is bound to be some overlap, again natural in a cross-disciplinary setting. The principal contributions of the faculty are presented below under broad groups. The diverse work of the faculty and their academic activities are mentioned in Annexures V to XIII.

Theoretical Perspectives

Prof.Subramanian continues his explorations into the theme of deprivation with specific reference to the issues of measurement and conceptualisation. One of his inquiries has been concerned with measurement and data related aspects of world-wide deprivation in the context of globalisation. He presented a paper on this theme in a conference in Rome in August 2000. With Dr.Manabi Majumdar he has collaborated on the measurement and applied aspects of capability failure and group deprivation. On a somewhat different plane Dr.Ananta Giri has been pursuing his study of new paradigms in development. Among his major areas of interest to which he has been contributing are the Swadhyaya movement and experiments in school education, especially integral education. Alongside these he is also studying the increasing intolerance in society as manifested, for example, by atrocities on Christians.

Demography

Dr.Jayaraj works mainly in demography but has also contributed to other studies. In the field of demography he has been working intensively on the sex ratio, especially its observed decline in India since the beginning of the last century. In order to explain this phenomenon (which is often taken to imply declining well being of women) he has analysed the determinants of the sex ratio at birth. This has been brought out as a working paper. He plans to revise this for publication in an appropriate journal. Prof.Nagaraj also plans to continue his earlier work on fertility decline in Tamil Nadu.

Dr.Jayaraj and Prof.Subramanian have collaborated to evolve a framework to explain India's declining sex ratio and have constructed a series on infant mortality disaggregated by sex for a period of ninety years. Further, both have worked together on child labour in Tamil Nadu and their joint paper is due to be published in EPW. Another joint effort is on group affiliation, externality and poverty measurement.

Gender

Prof.Padmini Swaminathan's work covers a number of gender issues. An important part of the work relates to gender bias in development. This has resulted in a paper on "violence of gender-based development: going beyond social and demographic indicators". This is to be published in an edited volume by Kali for Women. She has also contributed a case study on the "Costs of Work: Social Transformation and Women's Employment in a region in transition". And this is to be brought out in an edited volume by CEHAT, Mumbai. She plans to continue work on the above lines and is presently engaged in editing a volume on women, work and health and in revising a draft for a World Bank Study on violence against women.

Irrigation and Water Management

Prof.Nirmal Sengupta's work on large dams has been published by the World Commission on Dams, Cape Town. It is part of the India country study. He has also jointly written a paper on "Sustainability, equity and efficiency of irrigation infrastructure" for an edited volume on Institutions, ecosystem and sustainability'. His other works include a paper on the development of identity and one on appraising large dams.

Dr.S.Janakarajan works principally in the area of water management. One of his main activities is the IDRC project on Local Water Supply Options and Conservations in South Asia. The second phase of this project is under progress. Data collection and analysis are complete and the project team is in the process of writing a series of papers besides the project report. Dr.Janakarajan has attended several conferences related to his theme of work during the year under review, a Regional Groundwater Management Seminar in Islamabad, Pakistan in October 2000, another on Local Water Supply Options and Conservations in South Asia at a workshop organised by IDRC in Guiyang in China also in October 2000 and a five day intensive workshop on Local Water Supply Options once again organised by IDRC in Jaipur in November 2000. IDRC also organised a meeting in Kathmandu in April 2001 which Dr.Janakarajan attended and where he presented his work being conducted as part of the IDRC project.

Dr.Sivasubramaniyan who has recently joined as Research Associate was previously working in the IDRC project headed by Dr.Janakarajan. He also works in the area of irrigation and water management. During the review year he has contributed papers on tank irrigation in the Periyar-Vaigai Basin and on Water Management Traditions in major tanks and on the impact of irrigation on cropping intensity, cropping pattern and productivity under tank commands. It is expected that Dr.Sivasubramaniyan will continue to work in this area as a member of the faculty.

Rural Development and Village Studies

Dr.V.Chandrasekara Naidu has been devoting his attention to issues pertaining to rural development. As part of the Kerala Village Studies Programme, in which several members of MIDS faculty are involved, Dr.Chandrasekara Naidu has resurveyed Enathimelpakkam and Verkadu. He has also prepared a project on a Comparative Study of Panchayat Raj Institutions in Tamil Nadu and Karnataka which has been forwarded to the Union Planning Commission for funding. In addition, Dr.Chandrasekara Naidu has lectured in several forums on the WTO Agreement on Agriculture. Recently, he has also participated in a training programme for rural development functionaries organised by NIRD at Chennai.

Discrimination and Identity Politics

Dr.M.Thangaraj has a project sponsored by MISEREOR, Germany on an Evaluation of the 10 Point Programme for the Development of Dalit Christians in Tamil Nadu. The project is of one year duration and is well under way. He has also participated in the Kerala Research Project by writing a report on Agricultural Land Transfers in Tamil Nadu. He is also editing a book on land reforms for the National Academy of Administration, Musoorie. He has presented papers and seminars relating to his theme of work. It may be mentioned that Dr.Thangaraj is actively engaged in writing articles in Tamil.

Dr.M.S.S.Pandian spent a semester in the University of Wisconsin where he offered a course on "Colonialism and Culture in South Asia ". His main area of inquiry may broadly be described as identity politics and cultural studies. He is also in the process of completing a book on "Colonial Public Sphere".

Positive Discrimination, Electoral Studies

Prof.P.Radhakrishnan is the recipient of a grant from the Union Ministry of Human Resource Development for a project on Social Sciences and Higher Education in Tamil Nadu. The project is of two years' duration. Prof.Radhakrishnan continues to work on Backward Classes and Reservations as also on electoral politics in Tamil Nadu. On the latter theme he has contributed articles to newspapers. He is also associated with a number of academic bodies in the discipline of sociology. Among his future plans may be mentioned, editing a book on Backward Classes and Reservations in Tamil Nadu.

Governance and Decentralisation

Dr.Manabi Majumdar has been making contributions to the study of decentralised governance. A particular focus within this broad framework is decentralisation as applied to education. She has looked at education from a number of perspectives. One of her future plans is a major commitment in the area of local democracy and human development. She is attempting to see decentralisation not just as administrative deconcentration or devolution of fiscal responsibility, but as a process of bringing the lever of control closer to people - people as engaged citizens and active agents of action, reform and change.

As mentioned earlier, she has collaborated with Prof.S.Subramanian on joint papers relating to capability failure and group deprivation and on major deprivation adjusting for disparities. She has also been concerned with the challenges before what she terms the 'knowledge economy'.

Labour

Dr.Nagaraj has an ILO project on Women & Child Workers in the Beedi Industry in Dakshina Kannada District of Karnataka State. The survey is in progress. This project is expected to be completed by the end of 2001. He has also on the anvil a project on Contractual Relations in Plantation Labour sponsored by the National Labour Institute. The project is expected to start around September 2001. Dr.Nagaraj has also lectured to students and teachers of several colleges in Chennai as also at the Asian College of Journalism, Chennai.

Trade and Regional Economic Co-operation

Among the new recruits Dr.Moana Bhagabati plans to concentrate her attention on the legal aspects relating to regional trade agreements in the context of the rules on regional integration incorporated into the WTO. She plans to take up a project for preparing a data bank on WTO related issues, especially agriculture, industry and commerce. She also plans to formulate a project on the economic prospects of India's north-east within a South Asian free trade area.

Social and Cultural History

Dr.Venkatachalapathy has worked essentially on the social and cultural history of Tamil Nadu, especially during colonial times. At present he is working on a monograph on street literature in colonial Tamil Nadu and is editing the second volume of the collected works of Pudumaippithan. He is also active in writing in Tamil and in translation. Another new Research Associate, Dr.Kripa A.P. is expected to commence work in MIDS by mid-August.

Dissemination

It was mentioned in the previous year's report that MIDS was planning to take up a number of studies relating to Tamil Nadu Economy and Society and on the social sector. In furtherance of this, a new Discussion Paper Series titled S.Guhan Commemorative Series was initiated in late 2000 (see Annexure VIII).

We plan to publish more Discussion Papers in this series, many of which are of particular relevance to Tamil Nadu.

It was also mentioned in the previous report that the Institute had instituted two fellowships, both named after Dr.Malcolm Adiseshiah. It is a pleasure to record that one post-doctoral fellow under the Malcolm Adiseshiah Promotional Fellowship and one Ph.D. Scholar under the Ph.D. Merit Scholarship were selected and both are pursuing their work in the Institute. The former, of one-year duration, is meant to be awarded at the post-doctoral level and it is expected that the awardee will work on a theme pertaining to Tamil Nadu.

Convention on Development

As part of the initiative which we have taken in establishing closer links among ICSSR Institutes in South India, plans have been finalised for holding the first Convention on Development in November 2001. Dates are November 1st to 3rd. We have already received nearly 80 abstracts of papers and shortly we expect to have the completed papers in hand. Thereafter the Referees Committee will screen the papers and the Steering Committee will meet to finalise the programme.

Malcolm Adiseshiah Award

The Malcolm Adiseshiah award for distinguished contributions to Development Studies was instituted last year carrying a cash award of Rs.1 lakh and a citation. The award is meant to be given to a scholar preferably below the age of 50 years. Foreign scholars working in India and Indian scholars working abroad are eligible for the award. The award was notified in leading newspapers as well as in EPW. In addition, nominations were invited from distinguished scholars in the field. A three-member jury consisting of Dr.Amiya Kumar Bagchi, Dr.Mihir Rakshit and Dr.R.Champakalakshmi was constituted to recommend the awardee. While the Malcolm and Elizabeth Adiseshiah Trust provides financial support MIDS administers the award.

The jury met in the month of April and unanimously decided to recommend Prof.Abhijit Vinayak Banerjee, Professor of Economics, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, USA for the award. The presentation will be made during the Convention on Development, at which Prof.Banerjee will deliver the Malcolm Adiseshiah Memorial lectures.

Malcolm Adiseshiah Visiting Professorship

The Malcolm Adiseshiah Visiting Professorship has been instituted and the first incumbent of the Chair is Prof.Uma Chakravarthy, who will be taking up the assignment in January 2002. Thereafter Prof.Kaushik Basu, Cornell University has agreed to be the Malcolm Adiseshiah Visiting Professor during the summer of 2002. A list of affiliates and post-doctoral fellows are given in Annexure XVII.

Seminars and Conferences

2000-2001 has been an active year in the Institute for seminars and conferences.

Census & Caste

The first seminar to be held was one on Caste Enumeration in the Census. The objective of the seminar was to discuss the desirability and feasibility of including caste enumeration in the Indian population census. The seminar was organised in collaboration with the National Institute of Advanced Studies, Bangalore, ISEC, Bangalore and the University of Mysore. The University of Mysore offered local hospitality and the seminar was held on 21st and 22nd July, 2000 in the University of Mysore. The ICSSR provided a grant of Rs.30,000/- for the seminar and the Government of Karnataka also provided an equal amount. We place on record our gratitude to both of them for their generous help. We also thank the University of Mysore for local hospitality. The seminar was attended among others by the Registrar General of Census and also Directors of Census from Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Karnataka states. In addition the Chairmen of the Karnataka, Backward Classes Commission and the Andhra Pradesh Backward Classes Commission made presentations. At the end of the seminar a resolution was passed to the effect that caste enumeration should be made in order to enable more precise identification of the backward classes. A majority of the participants felt that while caste enumeration was desirable the Census may not be the most appropriate instrument for collecting such data. Ideally it should be entrusted to a team of specialists in sampling, with experts in anthropology and ethnography who should conduct detailed studies to arrive at a reasonably accurate picture of caste in Indian society. Dr.Manabi Majumdar published a report on the seminar in the Hindu. The list of papers and respective authors are reported in Annexure XVIII.

Devolution of Finances

On 22nd and 23rd September, 2000 MIDS organised a seminar on Devolution of Finances to Local Bodies in collaboration with the Second Tamil Nadu State Finance Commission. This seminar had over 80 participants from research institutes, universities and the Government of Tamil Nadu. In addition, experts in the field of financial devolution and decentralisation from various parts of India took part in the deliberations. The principal issues relating to finances such as taxes and grants, resource mobilisation, fiscal autonomy and reward for efficiency were discussed. Working groups were constituted to deliberate on these and other related issues. Detailed reports were prepared and discussed at the concluding plenary session. The major themes of the working groups were devolution, autonomy in panchayat raj institutions and specific problems related to urban local bodies.

WTO Agreement on Agriculture

At the instance of the Tamil Nadu Agricultural University, MIDS organised a half-day seminar on the WTO Agreement on Agriculture. This seminar was held on December 6, 2000. This was largely attended by specialists of the Government and representatives of research institutes and universities.

Meeting of Social Scientists

The Twenty Eighth meeting of Social Scientists of Southern Universities in collaboration with the Southern Regional Centres, ICSSR was held on 30th March, 2001. The theme of the discussion was "Fusing Research and Teaching in Social Sciences". Prof.S.S.Sivakumar, Dept. of Econometrics, University of Madras presented the lead paper. Around 15 professors from universities and research institutes attended the workshop.

Future of Social Sciences

Supported by a generous grant from the Ministry of Human resource Development, Government of India, MIDS organised a seminar on the "Future of Social Sciences: Search for New Perspectives" on April 19, 20 & 21, 2001. We acknowledge this support and in particular record our thanks to Thiru.Champak Chatterjee, Joint Secretary, MHRD. Papers and presentations were invited from leading social scientists from all over India. The major themes covered in the seminar were methods of inquiry, trans-disciplinarity, gender, and institutional issues. It is hoped that the papers presented at the seminar will be brought out as a volume in the near future.

Translation

The translation of Thiru.S.Guhan's papers taken up last year has almost been completed. It is expected that during the present year the volume will be published.

Journal

The Institute journal, Review of Development and Change has entered the sixth year of its existence. And so far, twelve issues have been published.
